

Fall Semester 2018

ANTH 413 / 613 Public Archaeology: Method and Theory

Monday and Wednesday 9-11am

This course will:

- Cover legislation and regulations concerning cultural resources and the historic preservation system in the United States
- Provide real-world experiences through excavations at Rowan Oak to look for evidence of slave quarters and geophysical survey at Friendship Cemetery in Columbus, MS to look for unmarked graves from the Civil War
- Prepare both advanced undergraduate and graduate students for employment in the cultural resources management field.

2016 excavations at Rowan Oak

Public archaeology – engaging the public to share archaeological findings, promoting stewardship of cultural resources, and/or making archaeology relevant to society by providing the public with the means for constructing their own past. This growing field of archaeological research includes work in archaeological heritage management, archaeological education, museum archaeology, cultural resources management, and a number of other arenas in which archaeologists and their publics interact (Carol McDavid, <http://www.saa.org/ForthePublic/ForArchaeologists/PublicArchaeologyis>).

Questions? Please contact Dr. Tony Boudreaux (662-915-7339, tboud@olemiss.edu).